

Add Internet Trading Service section on the ASE Website

May 05, 2014

In line with the ASE's policy of improving its website and enriching it with all information needed by investors in order to spread the investment culture and raising awareness among investors; the ASE added a new section to its web site about the Internet Trading Service.

The above mentioned section includes general information about the service, its mechanism, major risks that investors should be aware of, names of brokerage firms providing such service and some historical statistics on the activity of Internet Trading at the ASE.
